Jon Gotchis got his start in the sewer cleaning equipment field in 2004, as a Northeastern sales representative for Sreco Flexible Inc. He quickly developed an appreciation for and kinship with his customers, and realized he'd found his place in the water and wastewater industry.

After serving as National Sales Manager and International Sales Director for several years at the company, Jon realized it was time to start his own dealership. He wanted to add related products for customers who expressed needs that his limited product line couldn't fill.

Scavin Equipment Company was born in 2011. SCAVIN is an acronym for Sewer Cleaning And Video Inspection equipment.

Jon's goal was to deliver the best time-tested sewer cleaning equipment, as well as new technologies that would better serve his customers' goals. He wanted to find innovative products that use new technology to save time, labor and cost, to allow them to be more profitable while still delivering a high quality service.

To Jon, being the best means working to create a positive experience in serving his customers and creating long-term relationships.
